CORRECTIONS AND RETRACTIONS POLICY

1. INTEGRITY OF THE RECORD

KJSS is committed to preserving the integrity of the published scientific record. Minor typographical errors that do not affect article comprehension or scientific validity will not result in formal amendments. Serious errors, ethical breaches, or data inaccuracies require formal notices.

2. TYPES OF AMENDMENTS

  - Published as a distinct, linked statement appended to the original article without replacing the original text.
- Retraction:
  - Issued in cases of severe scientific error, data fabrication/falsification, uncredited plagiarism, redundant publication, or major ethical breaches, following COPE guidelines.
  - The original article PDF is retained online but marked with a prominent "RETRACTED" watermark. A formal Retraction Notice detailing the reasons and agreed signatories is linked to the article metadata.
- Removal of Article:
  - Executed only under exceptional legal circumstances (e.g., court orders, severe privacy violations, or defamatory content). The article text is removed, leaving a statement explaining the legal cause.
